KOLLATERAL

A NEW TV DOCUMENTARY SERIES

A chronicle of contemporary history

The documentaries KOLLATERAL

Behind the historical crisis of our time, there are people, families, lives, fates.

In KOLLATERAL, the open-end (filmed) series in cinematic format, we're putting faces to these numbers.

The series is being published three-dimensionally and internationally, i.e. in film, text and talk-show format and on 10 different channels. The series is running open-endedly via our own distribution channels. It is intended to be an interactive chronicle of our times.

The series thus creates a record of the latest (German) economic and social history. A chronicle in form of portayals, by and for interested, independent and engaged citizens.

KOLLATERAL is direct and personal, shows what has befallen people and ultimately ways out of the crisis – it is emotional, empathic, without commentary, not distanced, without criticism.

The individual episodes build on one another.
Production costs for single episodes are being supplied by sponsors.

The films are crowd-funded by people, that care about their country and its people.

The pilot “The Journalist” impressed with more than 500.000 views per week.

A Journalist is being betrayed by his friends and colleagues because he asks the wrong questions.

A headmaster loses her school, which she loves very much.

A teacher listens to her pupils and reports about their anxieties and suffering. Parents complain and the school board subpoenas her

A public health officer criticises the health policy which gets him fired.

A football world champion loses his job as a sports commentator with the biggest german tabloid newspaper.

A inn-keeper has to defend herself in court because of her “disposition”.

A member of the German parliament is being indicted, his house is being searched six times.
He loses his mandate and gains
new perspectives.

At the end of every portrait there are ways shown out of the crisis.

The journalist brings his family abroad to safety.
The headteacher finds new friends.
The pub is now booked months in advance.
And the public health officer finally does what he always wanted to do: he writes a book.

Only the member of the German parliament is waiting for the termination of his charge. Until then, he recalls his long lived political life...
